SPRING 2 : Issue 5

25th March, 2022

The beautiful weather has given us all a spring in our step at Great Addington over the last few days! It looks like the weekend is set to be just as sunny, fingers crossed that it stays that way for our Easter Service next Wednesday. We will let you know if we need to make any changes to our plans!

Deene began this week with a trip to the National Space Centre in Leicester. They had a fantastic time and learned lots about astronauts, planets and the wider universe.

Elsewhere in the school, we have been busy setting up 'calm corners' and wellbeing-check-ins in our classrooms. This is to enable our children to communicate their feelings to their teachers and enable us to support them with their emotions in the best possible way. I have had lots of positive conversations with the children about these new initiatives over the next few days and look forward to sharing more of our approach to mental health and emotional regulation with you as the year continues.

Thank you to those of you who attended our Parent Forum yesterday. The link has been sent out for you to catch up on the recording if you missed the live session. I have asked for feedback on any topics for parent workshops that you may find useful over the coming months. Please do let me know of any suggestions that you may have for these.

I wish you a wonderful weekend in the sunshine and Happy Mothers' Day to all our Mums! I look forward to seeing you all next week for our final week before the Easter break.
